ABSTRACT

This report provides a statistical profile of state library agencies in the 50 states and the District of Columbia for state fiscal year 1995. The data were collected through the State Library Agencies Survey conducted by the National Center for Education Statistics. The report documents the variety of roles being played by state library agencies and the various combinations of fiscal, human, and informational resources invested in such work. Summary highlights and full data cover: library governance; allied and other special operations; electronic network development; library development services--to public libraries, academic libraries, school library media centers, special libraries, and to systems; service outlets; collections; staff; income; and expenditures. Twenty-eight tables with sub-tables present state library statistics. Appendices include the survey abstract, methodology, facsimile, and recipients of LSCA Titles IV-VIII and/or "other" federal income. Sources for additional information are provided. (SWC)

The National Center for Education Statistics (NCES) is the primary federal entity for collecting, analyzing, and reporting data related to education in the United States and other nations. It fulfills a congressional mandate to collect, collate, analyze, and report full and complete statistics on the condition of education in the United States; conduct and publish reports and specialized analyses of the meaning and significance of such statistics; assist state and local education agencies in improving their statistical systems; and review and report on education activities in foreign countries.

NCES activities are designed to address high priority education data needs; provide consistent, reliable, complete, and accurate indicators of education status and trends; and report timely, useful, and high quality data to the U.S. Department of Education, the Congress, the states, other education policymakers, practitioners, data users, and the general public.

We strive to make our products available in a variety of formats and in language that is appropriate to a variety of audiences. Highlights

Governance

- Virtually all state library agencies (48 states and the District of Columbia) are located in the executive branch of government. Of these, over 60 percent are part of a larger agency, the most common being the state department of education. In two states, Arizona and Michigan, the agency reports to the legislature (tables 1a and 1b).

Allied and Other Special Operations

- A total of 19 state library agencies reported having one or more allied operations (table 2). Allied operations most frequently linked with a state library agency are the state archives (10 states), the state records management service (11 states), and the state legislative reference/research service (nine states).
- Fourteen state agencies contract with libraries in their states to serve as resource or reference/information service centers. Seventeen state agencies operate a State Center for the Book¹ (table 2).

Electronic Network Development

- In all 50 states, the state library agency plans or monitors electronic network development, 42 states operate such networks, and 46 states develop network content (table 3).
- State agencies also provide significant support to library access to the Internet. Almost all of them (49 states and the District of Columbia) are involved in facilitating library access to the Internet in one or more of the following ways: training library staff or consulting in the use of the Internet; providing a subsidy for Internet participation; providing equipment needed to access the Internet; managing gophers, file servers, bulletin boards, or listservs; or mounting directories, data bases, or online catalogs (table 3).

Library Development Services

Services to Public Libraries

- Every state library agency provides these types of services to public libraries: administration of LSCA (Library Services and Construction Act) grants, collection of library statistics, continuing education, and library planning, evaluation, and research (table 4a).
- Services to public libraries provided by at least three-quarters of state agencies include: administration of state aid, consulting services, interlibrary loan referral services, library legislation preparation or review, literacy program support, public relations or promotional campaigns, reference referral services, state standards or guidelines, summer reading program support, and union list development (table 4a).

¹The State Center for the Book is part of the Center for the Book program sponsored by the Library of Congress which promotes books, reading, and literacy, and is hosted or funded by the State.

- Services to public libraries provided by at least half of state agencies include Online Computer Library Center (OCLC) Group Access Capability and certification of librarians (table 4a).
- Less common services to public libraries include: accreditation of libraries, cooperative purchasing of library materials, preservation/conservation services, and retrospective conversion of bibliographic records (table 4a).

Services to Academic Libraries

- Over two-thirds of state library agencies report the following services to the academic sector: administering LSCA Title III grants, referring interlibrary loans, offering reference referral services, and developing union lists (table 4b). Three-fifths of state agencies serve academic libraries through continuing education.
- Less common services to academic libraries provided by state agencies include: literacy program support, preservation/conservation, retrospective conversion, and standards or guidelines. No state agency accredits academic libraries or certifies academic librarians (table 4b).

Services to School Library Media Centers

- Over two-thirds of state library agencies provide interlibrary loan referral services to school library media centers (LMCs) (table 4c). Services to LMCs provided by over half of state agencies include: administration of LSCA Title III grants, continuing education, reference referral, and union list development.
- Less common services to LMCs include: administration of state aid and cooperative purchasing of library materials. No state agency accredits LMCs or certifies librarians (table 4c).

Services to Special Libraries

- At least two-thirds of state agencies serve special libraries through administration of LSCA grants, continuing education, interlibrary loan referral, and reference referral (table 4d). Over half provide union list development and consulting services.
- Less common services to special libraries include administration of state aid, cooperative purchasing of library materials, or summer reading program support. No state agency accredits special libraries or certifies special librarians (table 4d).

Services to Systems

- Three-fifths of state agencies serve library systems through administration of LSCA grants, consulting services, continuing education, interlibrary loan referral services, library legislation preparation or review, reference referral, and library planning, evaluation, and research (table 4e).
- Accreditation of systems is provided by only six states and certification of system librarians, by only seven states (table 4e).

Service Outlets

- State library agencies reported a total of 159 service outlets. Main or central outlets accounted for 34.0 percent, other outlets (excluding bookmobiles) made up 58.5 percent (with Kentucky and Washington reporting the largest number, at 21 each) and Bookmobiles represented 7.5 percent of the total (table 5).

Collections

- The number of books and serial volumes held by state library agencies totaled 20.3 million, with New York accounting for the largest collection (2.3 million) (table 7). Five state agencies had book and serial volumes of over one million. In other states, these collections ranged from 500,000 to one million (11 states), 200,000 to 499,999 (8 states), 100,000 to 199,999 (12 states), 50,000 to 99,999 (5 states), and less than 50,000 (10 states). The state library agency in Maryland does not maintain a collection, and the District of Columbia does not maintain a collection in its function as a state library agency.
- The number of serial subscriptions held by state library agencies totaled almost 80,000, with New York holding the largest number (over 14,000). Seventeen state agencies reported serial subscriptions of over 1,000. In other states, these collections ranged from 500 to 999 (17 states), 100 to 499 (13 states), and under 100 (3 states).

Staff

- The total number of budgeted full-time equivalent (FTE) positions in state library agencies was 3,602.2 (table 11a). Librarians with ALA-MLS degrees accounted for 1,158.3 of these positions, or 32.2 percent of total FTE positions. Rhode Island reported the largest percentage (57.1) of ALA-MLS librarians, and West Virginia reported the lowest (16.1 percent).

Income

- State library agencies reported a total income of $752.9 million in FY 95 (82.1 percent came from state sources, 16.3 percent from Federal, and 1.6 percent from other sources) (table 14).
- Of state library agency income received from state sources, nearly $420 million (67.9 percent) was designated for state aid to libraries (table 16). Massachusetts had the largest percentage of state library agency income set aside for state aid (96.6 percent). Eight states targeted no state funds for aid to libraries. The District of Columbia, Hawaii, Iowa, Louisiana, Nevada, South Dakota, Vermont, and Washington reported state income only for operation of the state agency.²

²The District of Columbia Public Library functions as a state library agency and is eligible for Federal LSCA (Library Services and Construction Act) in this capacity. The state library agency in Hawaii is associated with the Hawaii State Public Library System and operates all public libraries within its jurisdiction. The state funds for aid to libraries for these two agencies are reported on the NCES Public Libraries Survey, rather than on the STLA survey, because of the unique situation of these two state agencies, and in order to eliminate duplicative reporting of these data.

Expenditures

- State library agencies reported total expenditures of over $725.2 million (table 17). The largest percentage (81.6 percent) came from state funds, followed by federal funds (17.1 percent), and other funds (1.3 percent).
- Three states shared the highest percentage of expenditures from state sources (92 percent) (table 17). These states were Georgia (92.0 percent), Illinois (91.7 percent), and New York (91.8 percent). Louisiana had the lowest percentage of expenditures from state sources (45.0 percent), with 54.7 percent of its expenditures coming from Federal sources.
- Sixty-nine percent of total state library expenditures were for aid to libraries, with the largest percentages expended on individual public libraries (49.6 percent) and public library systems (21.1 percent) (tables 22 and 24c).
- Sixteen state library agencies reported expenditures on allied operations totaling $18.8 million--just under three percent (2.6 percent) of total expenditures by state library agencies (table 26). Among the state agencies reporting such expenditures, the highest was reported by Texas ($3.2 million) and the lowest by Georgia ($6,000).³
- Twenty-nine state library agencies reported a total of $20.6 million in grants and contracts expenditures to assist public libraries with state education reform initiatives or the National Education Goals (table 27). Almost three-quarters of the expenditures were used to promote adult literacy and lifelong learning, and over one quarter to promote readiness for school. Of these state agencies, four (Minnesota, Nebraska, Pennsylvania, and Wisconsin) focused their grants and contracts expenditures exclusively on readiness for school projects, and five (Connecticut, Illinois, New Jersey, Oklahoma, and Texas) focused their expenditures exclusively on adult literacy and lifelong learning projects.

³Alaska, Kansas, and Pennsylvania have allied operations, but the expenditures are not from the state library agency budget.

Introduction

This report provides a statistical profile of state library agencies in the 50 states and the District of Columbia for state fiscal year 1995. The data were collected through the State Library Agencies Survey conducted by the National Center for Education Statistics (NCES).

A State Library Agency (STLA) is the official agency of a state charged by law of that state with the extension and development of public library services throughout the state, which has adequate authority under law of the state to administer state plans in accordance with the provisions of the Library Services and Construction Act (LSCA). Beyond these two essential roles, these agencies vary greatly. They are located in various departments of state government and report to different authorities. They are involved in various ways in the development and operation of electronic information networks. They provide different types of services to different types of libraries. This report provides data and information on the variety of roles being played by such agencies and the various combinations of fiscal, human, and informational resources invested in such work.

The FY 1994 data file and survey report contained some data for the District of Columbia and Hawaii that were also, and more appropriately, reported on the NCES Public Libraries Survey. These two agencies are unique because, in addition to their role as state library agencies, they operate all public libraries within their jurisdictions, so it was initially difficult for these agencies to establish separate reporting practices to capture their state library vs. public library functions. Following consultation with these two agencies, the State Library Agencies Survey Steering Committee, the Office of Library Programs in the U.S. Department of Education, and NCES, we are pleased to report that the data for the District of Columbia and Hawaii in this report are limited to data in their role as state library agencies.

Tables 24a to 24c in the FY 1994 report have been expanded in this report to tables 24a to 24f to provide state-based data on aid-to-libraries expenditures. The definitions of terms used in this report are provided in the survey facsimile (appendix C).

1/ In Connecticut, 2 of the 3 outlets listed under "Total outlets" in the category "Other outlets (excluding bookmobiles)" serve other libraries, not individuals.

Notes. 1. Service outlets include:

- Main or central outlet--A single unit library or the unit where the principal collections are located and handled. Note: Does not include a state library agency administrative center which is separate from the principal collections and is not open to users.
- Other outlets (excluding bookmobiles)--Units that have all of the following: (1) separate quarters; (2) a permanent basic collection of books and/or other materials; (3) a permanent paid staff; and (4) a regular schedule of hours open to users.
- Bookmobiles--Trucks or vans specially equipped to carry books and other library materials. They serve as travelling branch libraries. Note: The number of vehicles in use are counted, rather than the number of stops each vehicle makes.

2. User group outlets may not sum to total outlets because an outlet may serve more than one user group.

Appendixes

Appendix A—Survey Abstract

This report contains data on state library agencies in the 50 states and the District of Columbia for state fiscal year 1995. The data were collected through the State Library Agencies (STLA) Survey, the product of a cooperative effort between the Chief Officers of State Library Agencies (COSLA), the U.S. National Commission on Libraries and Information Science (NCLIS), and National Center for Education Statistics (NCES). The FY 1995 STLA Survey is the second in the series.

Background

A state library agency is the official agency of a state charged by the law of that state with the extension and development of public library services throughout the state, which has adequate authority under law of the state to administer state plans in accordance with the provisions of the Library Services and Construction Act (LSCA) (P.L. 101-254, as amended). STLAs are increasingly receiving broader legislative mandates affecting libraries of all types in the states (i.e., public, academic, school, special, and library systems). For example, their administrative and developmental responsibilities under LSCA Title III (Interlibrary Cooperation and Resource Sharing) affect the operation of thousands of public, academic, school, and special libraries in the nation. STLAs provide important reference and information services to state government and administer the state library and special operations such as state archives, libraries for the blind and physically handicapped, and the State Center for the Book. The STLA also functions as the state's public library at large, providing service to the general public and state government employees.

Purpose of Survey

The STLA Survey provides state and federal policymakers, researchers, and other interested users with descriptive information about STLAs in the 50 states and the District of Columbia. Data on STLAs complement NCES data collected on public, academic, school, and federal libraries, and on library cooperatives. The public library data collected by the STLA survey, when added to the data collected by the NCES Public Libraries Survey, will help complete the national picture of public library service. In summary, the STLA Survey data will join the results of these other NCES data collections to provide a comprehensive, national profile of libraries and information services.

Congressional Authorization

The STLA Survey is conducted in compliance with the NCES mission "to collect, analyze, and disseminate statistics and other information related to education in the United States...", P.L. 103-382, Title IV, National Education Statistics Act of 1994, Sec 404 (a).

Appendix B—Survey Methodology

This report contains data on state library agencies in the 50 states and the District of Columbia for state fiscal year 1995. The data were collected through the State Library Agencies (STLA) Survey, FY 1995, conducted by the National Center for Education Statistics (NCES). The reporting unit for the survey is the state library agency.

Survey Software

The STLA Survey software was designed to minimize response burden and provide NCES with state-edited data requiring minimal follow-up for data quality. Respondents are alerted to questionable data during the data entry process by pop-up messages that prompt them to verify or revise the data, as appropriate. The software also produces error/warning reports of questionable data, for additional review and editing of the data. The survey software and user guide (the survey manual) are provided to respondents on diskette and over the Internet. The user guide contains survey software installation procedures, data editing specifications, and a facsimile of the survey. The completed survey can be transmitted by mail or over the Internet.

Mailout, Editing, and Follow-up

To reduce response burden, the survey was transmitted with prior-year data for items where the data are not expected to change annually--most of Parts A through G, or about 40 percent of the survey. The respondent was requested to review the pre-entered data and update any information that had changed. All other numeric data cells were initialized with -2. The software does not permit a data file to be saved by a respondent if a -2 remains in any data cell. The survey respondent was instructed to answer -1 to any numeric item if they could not provide the data. Alpha-numeric items which are left blank indicate nonresponse (i.e., not reported or not applicable). Missing data are not imputed. A zero (0) is a reported response and indicates the STLA had none of the item.

The survey was mailed in mid-October, 1995 to the chief officers of state library agencies in the 50 states and the District of Columbia, and had a due date of January 15, 1996. The last submission was received on October 1, 1996. The Bureau of the Census served as the data collection and processing agent for NCES under an interagency agreement.

Census conducted nonresponse follow-up in February, 1996. From June through October of 1996, NCES and Census edited the individual state submissions by telephone follow-up with the states. After submissions were received from all 50 states and the District of Columbia, the preliminary national file and tables for the publication E.D. TABS: State Library Agencies, FY 1995 were reviewed for remaining data quality concerns by the STLA Steering Committee, NCES, and Census, and the states were again contacted to request verification or correction of questionable data. All corrections were made by December 31, 1996, and the final data file and tables were created.

The STLA Survey software performs four types of data edit checks:

1. Relational edit checks. A data consistency check between related data elements. For example, an error message is generated if the STLA is designated as a Federal depository library but does not indicate the type of Federal depository library.

2. Out-of-range edit checks. A comparison of data reported for an item to the "acceptable range" of values. For example, an error message is generated if annual Circulation per annual Library Visits is less than 0.5.
3. Arithmetic edit checks. An arithmetic accuracy check of a reported total and its parts to the generated total. For example, an error message is generated if Total Operating Expenditures is not equal to the sum of its parts (Total Staff Expenditures, Collection Expenditures, and Other Operating Expenditures).
4. Blank/zero/invalid edit checks. A check of reported data against acceptable values. For example, an error message is generated if Book/Serial Volumes is 0 or blank.

Survey Data Items

The survey collects data on 464 items, including governance, public service hours, number and types of service outlets, type and size of collections, library service transactions and development transactions, support of electronic information networks, allied operations, staff, and income and expenditures. Data are also collected on STLA services to public, academic, school, and special libraries, and to library systems. The data items and definitions are provided in the survey facsimile at the end of this report.

Universe

The state library agencies in the 50 states and the District of Columbia (51 total) comprise the survey universe.

Response Rate

Unit Response. The FY 1995 STLA Survey achieved a 100 percent response rate.

Item Response. Most items had a 100 percent response rate. The respondent was instructed to enter -1 to any numeric item to which they could not respond. Alpha-numeric items which were left blank also indicate nonresponse (i.e., not reported or not applicable). The lowest response rate to any item was 80.4 percent (library visits). Survey items with less than a 100 percent response rate are listed below by response rate ranges, data item number, and name:

95.0 - 99.9 percent response

- 006 - Zip + 4 (physical location address)
- 011 - Zip + 4 (mailing address)
- 016 - Internet (chief officer)
- 095 - Serial subscriptions
- 096 - Government documents
- 111 - Interlibrary loans received from other libraries/document delivery services
- 116 - On-site monitoring visits for LSCA/State grants
- 118 - Total attendance at events
- 210 - Academic and school libraries

90.0 - 94.9 percent response

- 021 - Internet (survey respondent)

80.4 - 84.9 percent response

- 114 - Library visits

Reporting Period. The FY 1995 STLA Survey requested data for state fiscal year 1995, except for Part B—Governance and Part J—Staff data which were requested as of October 1, 1995. The fiscal year of most states is July 1 to June 30. Exceptions are New York (April 1 to March 31); Texas (September 1 to August 31); and Alabama, the District of Columbia, and Michigan (October 1 to September 30).

Percentages reported on tables. Percentage distributions are included in many E.D. TABS tables for easier analysis of the data. Percentage distributions were calculated for a state only if all of the detail comprising the distribution was reported by the state.

Using the Data to Make Comparisons. The STLA data are not imputed for item nonresponse, so state and national totals may be underestimated for some items. State comparisons should be made with caution because states may vary in their item response rates, fiscal year reporting periods, and adherence to survey definitions. The District of Columbia, while not a state, is included in the survey. Special care should be used in comparing District of Columbia data with state data.

Serials are publications issued in successive parts, usually at regular intervals, and as a rule, intended to be continued indefinitely. Serials include periodicals (magazines), newspapers, annuals (reports, yearbooks, etc.) memoirs, proceedings, and transactions of societies. Except for the current volume, count unbounded serials as volumes when the library has at least half of the issues in a publisher's volume.

- 093 Films. The term film is used interchangeably with "motion picture" which is a length of film with or without recorded sound, bearing a sequence of still images that create the illusion of movement when projected in rapid successions (usually 18 or 24 frames per second). Motion pictures are produced in a variety of sizes (8, super 8, 16, 35, 55, and 70 mm) and in a variety of forms (cartridge, cassette, loop, and reel).
- 094 Video materials. These are materials on which pictures, sound, or both are recorded. Electronic playback reproduces pictures, sounds, or both using a television receiver or monitor.
- 095 Serial subscriptions (titles, not individual issues) (exclude microforms). These include subscriptions received, both purchased and gifts. This count does not include the number of individual issues, but rather each serial title. Report the total number of titles subscribed to, including duplicates. Do not report individual issues.
- 096 Government documents (include only government documents not accessible through the library catalog and not reported elsewhere). For government documents not accessible through the library catalog and not reported on other lines, report the number of volumes or physical units of such materials in all formats. - 14. Enter <Y>es or <N>o for each item to indicate whether the STLA maintains a special collection (i.e., at the support, research, or comprehensive level of collection development) in a subject area.

Note: The American Library Association and the Association of Research Libraries' North American Collections Inventory Project identifies five levels of collection development. A special collection is a group of materials in a subject area that are selected and maintained at the support, research, or comprehensive level. Do not report collections selected and maintained at the basic level or minimal level as special collections. The five collection levels are defined below.

Collection Levels

Comprehensive level. A collection in which a library endeavors, so far as is reasonably possible, to include all significant works of recorded knowledge (publications, manuscripts, periodicals, other forms) for a necessarily defined field. The aim, if not the achievement, is exhaustiveness.

Research level. A collection which includes the major source materials required for governmental, professional, and independent research, including seminal works, materials containing research reporting, new findings, scientific experimental results, and other information useful to researchers. It includes all important reference works, a wide selection of specialized monographs, as well as a very extensive collection of journals and major indexing and abstracting services in the field.

Support level. A collection intended to support legislative and governmental interests and programs, network responsibilities, and sustained independent study. It is adequate to maintain knowledge of a subject required for limited or generalized purposes of less than research intensity. It includes a wide range of basic monographs, complete collections of the works of primary writers, selections from the works of secondary or controversial writers, a selection of representative journals, and the reference tools and fundamental bibliographical works pertaining to the subject.

Basic level. A collection of materials which will introduce and define a subject and indicate the varieties of information available elsewhere. It may include major dictionaries and encyclopedias, selected editions of important works, general surveys, important bibliographies, handbooks, and a few major periodicals. A collection developed at this level is not sufficiently intense to support government programs or independent study in the subject area involved. It may, however, include strong retrospective holdings in subject areas that were, at one time, a higher priority of the STLA.

Minimal level. A subject area in which few selections are made beyond very basic works.

Subject Areas

- 098 Agriculture. Materials on general agriculture, including farming and land management; plant culture, including botany, horticulture, landscaping, and gardening; forestry; animal culture, including wildlife, livestock, pets, and veterinary medicine; aquaculture, including fishing and fisheries; and hunting.

- 100 Genealogy. Primary and secondary materials adequate to study and document historical family relationships. Includes records of vital statistics, such as births, marriages, deaths; publications documenting established family trees, pedigrees, and lineages; family histories and biographies; and materials on heraldry. Such a collection may focus on the State, a region, the entire United States, or the world.

Primary and secondary materials of the State itself including constitutions, codes and statutes, session laws, and other legislative documents and materials; court reports and rules, appellate court records and briefs, opinions of the attorney general; decisions, rules, and regulations of administrative agencies and tribunals; digests and encyclopedias; citators, indexes, local treatises, and practice books; publications of law schools and bar associations; and primary materials of local governments under the State's jurisdiction. Similar materials that are regional or local in scope may also be collected.
- 102 Library and information science. Primary and secondary materials related to the study of librarians, librarianship, and library collections, services, programs, and facilities; information specialists and information centers; books, non-print formats, and electronic sources of information; bibliography, copyright, and censorship and intellectual freedom; and histories, statistics, and other reports on individual libraries and groups of libraries.

- 103 State history. Materials bearing upon the political, social, economic, and cultural history of the State and its antecedent colonial and territorial governments. Related regional and local materials may also be included. May include printed histories; maps; pamphlets, broadsides, and programs; pictures; newspapers and periodicals; speeches and sermons; biographies, journals, diaries, letters and other personal papers, and private manuscripts; and books by State authors. Such a collection is usually kept up-to-date through the inclusion of historical narrative and statistical information relative to the present time.
- 104 Other special collections. If the STLA has a special collection in any other subject area, enter <Y>es for this item.
- 105 Specify. If response to item 104 is <Y>es, identify the subject area(s) in this item.
15. Enter <Y>es or <N>o for each item (106-109) to indicate whether the STLA is designated as a federal or State depository library for government documents, and whether it is a regional or selective federal depository.

- 107 Federal depository library. A library officially designated as a depository of publications bearing the imprint of the federal government. These libraries receive publications issued by the executive, judicial, and the legislative branches at no charge in exchange for providing free public access. Enter <Y>es or <N>o to items 108 and 109 to indicate if the STLA is a regional or selective depository.
- 108 Regional. Regional depositories receive one copy of all materials distributed by the federal government.
- 109 Selective. Selective depositories receive only those materials they select.

PART H. LIBRARY SERVICE TRANSACTIONS

16. Enter in the spaces provided ANNUAL totals for the specified types of service transactions for all STLA outlets (main or central, bookmobiles, and other outlets) that serve the general public and/or State government employees.

Note: Main or central outlet, bookmobiles, and other outlets (excluding bookmobiles) are defined in the instructions to question 10. Report library service transactions for all STLA outlets that serve the general public, regardless of whether they are open on a walk-in or referral basis. Exclude data for a local public or academic library serving as a State resource center or State reference/information service center under contract with the STLA. Exclude service transactions for outlets or outlet service points that only serve blind and physically handicapped individuals through the National Library Service for the Blind and Physically Handicapped, Library of Congress. Also exclude service transactions for outlets that only serve residents of State correctional institutions or other State institutions.
